Island Report

Communication, Advocacy and Protection of BHI Property Values

President's Letter: BaldHeadAssociation.com

~Kit Adcock

As this issue of the Island Report goes to press, the Bald Head Association will be launching a brand new web site, BaldHeadAssociation.com. Providing important and timely information is a cornerstone of the Association's mission. How to do this effectively and efficiently evolves with the technology available both to the Association and our audience. For years the Association's leadership, staff and volunteers have dreamed of a day when all the information needed by our membership could be found in one easy-to-access place. It is with pride I can announce that day has arrived!

The technological advances that have occurred in communications during the thirty-plus-year life of the Bald Head Association are simply dizzying. During my childhood the biggest telephonic advancement seemed to be the transition from rotary dial to push button phones. These days I hope that my smart phone will stay current and continue to function during the two-year lifespan of my service contract. Our society's dependence on instant communication has resulted in huge changes in delivery mechanisms and in our customers' expectations. Today, to reach our audience of current and prospective property owners, a range of print and electronic media is required.

The Association's web site evolution has paralleled the technological revolution. The site you will find at BaldHeadAssociation.com showcases the island and the Bald Head Association. It includes news events, features and information about which the BHA staff is regularly queried. It includes copies of important documents like the BHA's Covenants, the most current Design Guidelines and forms that may be required for renting Association space or submitting an architectural change. The web site will enable BHA to provide information our members may need beyond standard office hours - 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

To be useful, a web site must be constantly updated, and thus this new BHA web site is a work in progress. Please take some time to navigate it. Let us know what else you'd like to see and what additional information would be helpful to you now. We'd also like to know those pesky "wish I'd know that when..."-type things that would benefit other property owners. BHA is committed to keeping our new web site current so that it will be a reliable and valuable resource for our property owners.

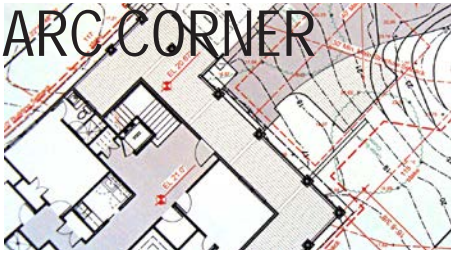

The launch of this web site is the result of hundreds of hours of thought, analysis and plain old hard work. BHA Executive Director Carrie Moffett had a vision for what the Association's web presence could be. The Communications, Education and Recreation Committee, past and present, added support to the vision. The Association's newest employee, Jane Baldridge, built and wrote page after page, making logical connections and links between pages as she learned the ropes of her new job. Special thanks go to past BHA President

Brenda Quanstrom for her historical perspective and to F.A. McLeod for her keen editing eye. This has truly been a collaborative effort, and a reflection of how our talented community makes cool things happen, helping each day to make Bald Head Island a great place to live, work and play.

Karen
Mosteller, Architectural Review
Coordinator

Everyone knows that ultimately the reason the Design Guidelines exist is for the protection and preservation of Bald Head Island, which is why we often receive calls from homeowners asking if the project or changes they are thinking about require Architectural Review Committee approval. So, we thought we would include the Covenant information found in the Design Guidelines that helps answer that question.

The Covenants state in Section 7.1, "No structures, buildings, improvements or construction, which shall include within its definition, clearing, grading, excavation and other site work, will be commenced, erected, or maintained upon any Unit or the Properties, nor will any exterior addition, change, alteration, or change of color be made, except in compliance with this ARTICLE, the Design Guidelines and until the plans and specifications showing the nature, kind, shape, heights, materials, and location of the same will have been submitted to and approved in writing as to harmony of external design and location in relation to surrounding structures and topography by the Committee according to the provisions of Section 7.2. Structures, buildings and improvements shall include, but not be limited to any dwelling, garage, fence, wall, sidewalk, hedge, mass planting, change in grade or slope, drainage pipe, drainage canal, ditch, swale, catch basin, swimming pool, tree house, playhouse, sign, flagpole, exterior illumination, monument or marker, outdoor statuary, exterior lights, security lights, storm door, well utility facility, mailbox, patio, deck, screening for outdoor trash cans or other purposes (ex. HVAC, generator units, outdoor showers, etc.), sprinkler system, driveway, outdoor decorative objects, shrubbery or landscaping."

Please remember to use us as a resource to answer questions about the ARC review process and the Design Guidelines. You may reach me at 910-457-4676 ext. 22 or email karen@baldheadassociation.com.

The Turtles are coming!
The Turtles are coming!

Bald Head Island is a nesting site for loggerhead sea turtles (Caretta caretta), green sea turtles (Chelonia mydas) and occasionally leatherback turtles (Dermochelys coriacea). Nests deposited on the beach from May through August usually hatch at night from July through October.

The BHI Conservancy staff patrols the beaches of Bald Head from May 15th until the last nest hatches. When a female sea turtle comes ashore and lays a nest, staff measure and tag her and cage the nest to protect it from predation. After approximately 45-50 days, the Conservancy monitors each nest for signs of the hatchling activity and continues their vigil until the nests hatch.

Residents of this nature-loving barrier island have watched over sea turtles since 1980. Today, through the BHI Conservancy, visitors have a range of opportunities to learn about turtle activity on one of the highest density nesting beaches within the loggerhead's northern range.

To date, 11 nests have been laid in 2014 on Bald Head Island and one up East Beach/Ft. Fisher. In 2013 there were 120 nests, 76 in 2012, 99 in 2011, 75 in 2010 and 37 in 2009. Everyone is hopeful this upward trend is a result of the diligence of the BHI Conservancy and their volunteers over the last 31 years.

Have You Paid Your Dues?

If you're unsure whether you've paid your annual dues or assessment for 2014, please call the BHA office at 910-457-4676 x21 to find out. Late notices for unpaid assessments are being sent out and interest has begun to accrue at a rate of 1.5% per month. Liens will be placed on properties whose dues remain unpaid as of September 15th. Property owners wishing to make payment arrangements should contact Carrie Moffett directly at carrie@baldheadassociation.com to negotiate a plan.

Help Us Go Green!

Sign up to receive the monthly Island Report electronically. Send an email to carrie@baldheadassociation.com and ask to be removed from the 'snail mail' list. Thanks for your support of our effort to save a few trees!

Summer Safety Tip: Swim Safety

Bald Head Island sits at the mouth of the Cape Fear River, known for swift, dangerous currents. Coupled with converging ocean tides, swimming conditions on BHI beaches can change rapidly and be challenging for even experienced swimmers. There are no life guards, so you should never swim alone and always be mindful of rip tides. Rip tides are most prevalent two hours before and after low tide.

Know Your Association

The last two years have brought many new property owners to Bald Head Island. Membership into Bald Head Association (BHA) accompanies ownership within Stage I of the Island's development. So, to inform new property owners of some of BHA's Covenants – or to refresh the memories of our more seasoned members – BHA is introducing a new column entitled 'Know Your Association.' Each month an area of interest will be highlighted for further explanation.

Single Family Utilization

Article 10.5(a), BHA's Covenants

Unless specifically exempted, all properties in the BHA service area are for single family residential purposes only. This means that no commercial activities are allowed except for home offices – and even they cannot create traffic, require signage or even include retail space, among other things.

This Covenant also prohibits property owners from 1) allowing their homes to be occupied by more than one family or one family with guests 2) renting their crofters independent of renting their homes and 3) simultaneously occupying their homes while renting their crofters or vice versa. Below is Article 10.5(a) of the Covenants, which provides more detail.

(a) Single Family Utilization. This Declaration will restrict all Units described on EXHIBIT A to use only for single family residential purposes unless an amendment to this Declaration is adopted in accordance with Section 14.2. No home or other structure constructed within the described area will be utilized for commercial purposes, except that home offices will be permitted as long as such offices do not induce traffic, require signage, require outdoor storage of equipment, inventory, vehicles, or include retail space. If otherwise approved in accordance with the procedures and standards set out within this Declaration, nothing contained herein will prohibit or restrict the construction of any appurtenant structure to any residence, including, but not limited to, decks, walkways, or cart storage facilities.

No dwelling, including any ancillary structure or annex to a Unit, will be utilized at any time for occupancy by more than one family or one family with guests. The Owner of a Unit is specifically prohibited from occupying an ancillary structure or annex located on his Unit while renting the primary residential dwelling, or from occupying the primary residential dwelling while renting the ancillary structure or annex, or from renting to two or more rental parties, the primary residence and the ancillary structure or annex.

Remember, as the property owner, you are responsible for knowing your obligations under the Covenants. A complete copy of the Covenants can be found on BHA's web site (baldheadassociation.com). Contact BHA with questions at 910-457-4676 x21 or carrie@baldheadassociation.com.

Summer Safety Tip: Don't feed the animals

This medium sized American Alligator swam across the pond upon spying a human. This means it has likely been fed by humans and now associates people with food. This is why there are ordinances against feeding wildlife.

The wildlife on BHI is, well, WILD! Alligators can be aggressive, especially if they associate you with food. Likewise, some of the other year-round inhabitants, like deer, raccoons, foxes and the like, should be seen, appreciated, but not fed or approached as they can be dangerous, unpredictable and can carry diseases.

Timbercreek Mulch Site Details

Last month, the Village of BHI provided details about the recent changes to the Timbercreek mulch site. Several important points are reprinted below:

The Timbercreek mulch site is now open on a 24 hour/7 days a week basis. It is located off North Bald Head Wynd, behind the Village of BHI Dog Park. Please use caution at the site and note that it will be closed when they are actively running the grinding machine.

Yard Debris

Yard debris can be dropped off at no charge. This applies both to property owners and landscapers/contractors.

Large amounts of yard debris that property owners have cut that they do not want to drop off themselves will only be picked up if Public Works is notified. Property owners MUST either call Public Works at 910-457-5422 or complete an online request to be added to the next available debris pick up date via the Village's web site (villagebhi.org – Click on Citizen Service Request from the homepage.) From April through September, debris is picked up on the first and third Wednesdays of each month upon notification by property owners. Remember, debris will not be picked up unless Public Works is notified.

In the unusual event that property owners' debris pick up exceeds one dump truck full (5 cubic yards), there will be a $50 fee for each additional load.

Public Works will not pick up yard debris created by landscapers/contractors. It is their responsibility to remove the debris.

The site accepts all vegetative yard debris for free as long as it conforms to the Village landscaping ordinance (e.g., no larger than five inches in diameter). Large pieces should be cut to a maximum of four foot lengths. Please do not dispose of plastic bags or other non-vegetative debris at the site.

Mulch

Mulch is located at the back of the site and is available at no charge on a first come, first served basis.

Mulch is available on a self-service basis. When a large quantity of mulch is needed, Island Contracting can provide delivery services (for a fee).

For questions about the site, please call Island Contracting at 910-540-1891 or 910-443-3123.

Wounded Warrior Weekend a Success (Again!)

Thank you to all who contributed their time, talent and money to help make the recent Wounded Warrior Weekend a remarkable experience for another group of deserving service men and their families. This community's generosity is admirable and the appreciation for the sacrifices these families have and continue to make is evident. The following thank you note from one of the participating families shows the real impact these weekends have.

To the Residents of Bald Head Island:

We cannot thank you enough for your generosity, hospitality and kindness. You opened your hearts and your island up to our family and showed us an amazing time. The Island is beautiful and we created memories that we'll never forget. This was actually our very first vacation as a family and even the first vacation we've had as a couple! Deployments always made one impossible. I can't tell you enough how nice it is to have strangers appreciate what my husband and so many others have sacrificed. Thank you from the bottom of our hearts! Thank you!

BHA Common Area
Used for Reptile Research
~Tyler Knierim,
2014 BHI Conservancy Intern

Drift fence and bucket trap being used by a BHI Conservancy intern this summer.

My name is Tyler Knierim. and I'm one of the lucky eighteen interns who is spending their summer working on the island with the BHI Conservancy. I will be conducting research on the island's reptilian and amphibian inhabitants. Drift fences, which are made from plastic cloth, silt-erosion fencing, will be constructed and installed along waterways and in dense vegetation on a few of the properties here on the island. As these animals move across the ground they will run into the drift fence and attempt to reach the other side. As they move either direction down the fence, they will fall into a 5-gallon bucket that has been dug into the ground, flush with the surface of the soil.

In addition to drift fences and bucket traps, cover boards (sheets of old plywood) provide great refuge for snakes and lizards. Through the course of this research project, I hope to identify any species of special interest as well as those that are threatened or endangered, or even venomous species, such as copperheads or cottonmouths, which to date have not been documented on the island. As the summer comes to an end and the cooler fall weather rolls in, the drift fences and buckets will be removed because reptiles become inactive throughout the winter months.

I would like to thank the Bald Head Association for their support and allowing me to place some of my drift fences and cover boards on common area property. I look forward to sharing my results with you at the end of the project!

BHI Conservancy Interns Launch Summer Projects

~Nicki Dardinger, Director of Conservation

The BHI Conservancy is bustling with activity this summer! A team of eighteen undergraduate interns from across the country arrived in May to help support the BHI Conservancy's education programs, conservation monitoring initiatives, and sea turtle protection program. As part of their summer experience, each intern completes an independent project on a topic of their choosing. While they have the freedom to design their project, they must make sure that their project will be beneficial to the BHI community. Here are a few highlights from this year's projects.

Helping understand the island's rat population

Several interns have designed projects that will help the BHI Conservancy better understand the roof rat population on the island. Brittany Sumner, a student at Clemson University, will be placing live traps for small mammals in the maritime forest to begin to estimate how many rats and other small mammals are on the island. Abbie Dwire, a student at Sweet Briar College, Connor Hinton, a junior at Gettysburg College, and Tyler Knierim, from Iowa State University, are tackling the rat challenge a little differently – by asking, “What is eating them?” Connor and Abbie will be using wildlife cameras and bait stations to look for coyotes and foxes, while Tyler will be conducting a survey for snakes and lizards. Understanding the island's predator populations will help the BHI Conservancy make recommendations to address the increase in roof rats.

Inspiring the next generation

Education is crucial to conservation efforts, and several interns are implementing projects to improve the BHI Conservancy's environmental education programs. Kristen Mehl, studying at the University of Michigan – Dearborn, and Savannah Currens, a senior at NC State, are tackling the BHI Conservancy's Fleming Center. Both classrooms are being remodeled and will offer hands-on experiences and learning opportunities for visitors. Mel Musso, a 2014 graduate of the College of Charleston, is creating an Island Bike Tour that will engage participants with island history and habitats. Stay tuned for information on how to participate in this new program during July and August!

Saving sea turtles

There is always more to learn about sea turtles, and with thirty years of turtle nesting data waiting to be explored, the BHI Conservancy is one of the best places to conduct research related to these magnificent ocean reptiles. Joe Seebode, a student at College of the Holy Cross, is interested in the effect of injuries on the number of eggs a female turtle lays, and will be looking at data from BHI and other nesting beaches to help answer his question. Nesting sea turtles seem to know where to go when they come up on the beach to lay their eggs. Emily Hardin, a senior at the University of South Carolina, is interested in better understanding the types of beaches turtles prefer and is conducting research on the slope of the beach at each nest this summer to determine if nesting turtles prefer to crawl out of the water at a particular angle. The results of this study will help us make better recommendations for how best to construct re-nourished beaches in the future.

Be sure to stop by the BHI Conservancy to say hello to this year's interns! They are always happy to talk about their projects and what they have been discovering on Bald Head Island.

Communication/Architectural Review Associate

I am grateful for the opportunity to utilize my communication skills for the Bald Head Association. I also have the pleasure of helping Karen Mosteller, ARC Coordinator, manage the constant influx and outflow of information concerning architectural reviews and construction information.

Since I have such deep appreciation for the island and its keepers, working for them is a pleasure. My first large task has been to get the new BHA web site populated with pertinent information for all property owners and prospective owners. This has sent me seeking information on a much deeper level than ever before. For instance, did you know there are three boat storage facilities and they are all full? I love learning more about the island and making that knowledge available to those who need it.

Being part of the ARC team with Karen is both fascinating and rewarding. Our jobs as the conduit between builders, architects, property owners and BHA Board & Committee members helps preserve the amazing place that is Bald Head Island.

I am excited to work with such great people and look forward to expanding and branding the communication channels for property owners. Come by and seem me. Mondays and Thursdays I am downstairs with Carrie; Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays I am upstairs with Karen and Roux!

Jane Baldridge recently joined the BHA staff, splitting her time between the organization's communications and the architectural review needs. Jane has a substantial background in communications /marketing and has for the past 5.25 years dedicated her talents to helping build the BHI Conservancy's brand and customer base. We are fortunate to have her join the BHA staff.
